Magistrate Judge Leavitt filed a Report and Recommendation on March 4, 2004, recommending Petitioner's Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus (Ct. Rec. 1) be denied. (Ct. Rec. 23.) On March 17, 2004, Petitioner filed an Objection to the U.S. Magistrates Judge's Report and Recommendation. (Ct. Rec. 24.)

I. Unexhausted Claims and Procedural Default

Petitioner admits he failed to exhaust federal habeas claims one, three, four, five and six. Ct. Rec. 24, pp. 6, 8-9. He argues that if he failed to raise his habeas issues as specific constitutional violations in the Washington Supreme Court, that court should now permit him "to amend his motion." (Ct. Rec. 24, p. 4). As stated in the Report and Recommendation, procedural default bars Petitioner from seeking relief in the Washington Supreme Court with respect to these five unexhausted claims. (Ct. Rec. 23, pp. 79-81).

1       Petitioner claims that because he is a pro se prisoner housed
2 in Rhode Island, his failure to exhaust state remedies and 3 procedural default should be excused. (Ct. Rec. 24, pp. 1-2; 4-6.)
4 As stated in the Report and Recommendation, the requirement of 5 raising all federal issues in state court is not excused for pro se
6 habeas petitioners. Rose v. Lundy, 455 U.S. 509, 520 (1982); Ct.
7 Rec. 24, p. 55.

8       Petitioner's first, third, fourth, fifth and sixth grounds for 9 habeas relief have not been properly exhausted for federal habeas 10 corpus purposes, as he now admits. Ct. Rec. 23, pp. 61-79; Ct. Rec.
11 24, pp. 6, 8-9. Because more than one year has passed since 12 Petitioner's conviction became final and Petitioner has failed to 13 make a showing of cause and prejudice or a colorable showing of 14 actual innocence, these claims are procedurally barred under 15 Washington law. Ct. Rec. 22, pp. 79-83; Coleman v. Thompson, 501 16 U.S. 722, 750 (1991); Noltie v. Peterson, 9 F. 3d 802, 804-05 (9th 17 Cir. 1993). Since Petitioner's claims 1,3,4,5, and 6 are not 18 cognizable in this habeas proceeding, the merits of these claims 19 were appropriately not addressed in the report and recommendation.
20 The Court adopts the findings of the Magistrate Judge that claims 21 1,3,4,5, and 6 are unexhausted.

22       As stated in the report, as long as the state procedural bar is 23 an adequate and independent state rule, then petitioner's 24 unexhausted claims are barred in federal court absent a showing of 25 cause and prejudice or a fundamental miscarriage of justice. See 26 Coleman v. Thompson, 501 U.S. at 749-50. Ct. Rec. 24, p. 81. An 27 independent and adequate state rule must be one that is firmly 28 established and was regularly and consistently followed by the state

1 courts at the time that the claim should have been raised. See 2 Calderon v. U.S. Dist. Court (Hayes), 103 F. 3d 72, 75 (9th Cir.
3 1996), cert. denied, 521 U.S. 1129 (1997). Cause may be demonstrated 4 by showing that "some objective factor external to the defense"
5 prevented petitioner from complying with state procedural rules
6 relating to presentation of his or her claims. See, e.g., McCleskey
7 v. Zant, 499 U.S. 467, 493-94 (1991) (abuse of writ context). Once 8 petitioner has demonstrated cause, he or she must show actual 9 prejudice resulting from the failure to comply. See id. at 494. Ct.
10 Rec. 24, p. 81. A fundamental miscarriage of justice exists in the 11 "extraordinary instances when a constitutional violation probably 12 has caused the conviction of one innocent of the crime." Id. Absent 13 a showing of cause and prejudice or a fundamental miscarriage of 14 justice, Petitioner's unexhausted habeas claims are not cognizable.
15 Ct. Rec. 24, p. 81.

16 Petitioner does not attempt to prove cause and prejudice, or to 17 make a colorable showing of actual innocence sufficient to excuse
18 his default. Ct. Rec. 24, p. 82.

19 The Court adopts the Magistrate Judge's recommendation denying 20 federal habeas corpus review of Petitioner's unexhausted claims 21 because they are barred by procedural default.

22 II. Merits

23 As the Magistrate Judge's report indicates, one of Petitioner's 24 claims is properly exhausted, claim two. Ct. Rec. 24, p. 73. This 25 claim alleged that Petitioner's right to a fair and impartial jury 26 was violated by the trial court's failure to hold an evidentiary 27 hearing regarding the alleged misconduct of Juror B. In his 28 objection to the report Petitioner adds the new argument that he was

1 not present when his attorney told the court the defense waived an 2 evidentiary hearing and wished to leave the juror seated. Ct. Rec.
3 24, pp. 15-16.

4 The record does not support this argument. The state court of 5 appeals stated:

6 "Critically, Mr. DiBartolo does not contend that he and Ms.
7 Moreno disagreed during trial on the decision to oppose any 8 removal of jurors. And the strategy was tactically sound."

9 Ex. 15; Ct. Rec. 23, p. 67. As indicated in the report, the record
10 reveals the trial judge excused defense counsel to discuss with Mr.
11 DiBartolo the prosecutor's motion to remove one or both jurors.
12 After the recess the judge asked counsel if she had discussed it 13 with Mr. DiBartolo. Defense counsel told the court she did. The 14 court heard the arguments of both counsel. Defense counsel opposed 15 the prosecutor's motion to remove any of the jurors. Ct. Rec. 23, 16 pp. 59-60.

17 Petitioner's assertion that he disagreed with his attorney's 18 request that the jury remain intact was not raised at trial, on 19 direct appeal, on collateral review, or in his habeas petition. The 20 record does not support his claim.

21 Petitioner also argues that jury tampering cases apply to the 22 alleged juror misconduct in this case. He argues that the court must 23 examine whether Juror B's bias interfered with the jury's
24 deliberations by distracting one or more of the jurors and further 25 consider whether the jury was "substantially swayed" by the alleged 26 misconduct. Ct. Rec. 24, p. 16. Petitioner then argues that the 27 "standard that must be applied by the appellant [sic] court must 28 derive from jury misconduct cases that involve allegations of jury

1 tampering." Id. As stated by the court of appeals, Juror F's
2 disclosures did not allege jury tampering. United States v. Dutkel, 3 192 F. 3d 893 (9th Cir. 1999), cited by Petitioner, is inapposite.
4 Dutkel and other cases cited by Petitioner involve contact with 5 jurors by persons outside the jury panel. Petitioner cites no case 6 where differences between jurors on a properly impanelled jury is 7 jury tampering. It is unrealistic to believe that tensions between 8 jurors would not exist. That tensions exist, however, does not 9 constitute jury tampering or misconduct unless it impairs the 10 ability of the jury to discharge its sworn duty. The court of 11 appeals found that the jury's ability was not impaired as evidenced 12 by their ability to reach a verdict and affirmed when polled that it 13 was each juror's individual's verdict. Ct. Rec. 23, p. 70.

14 Moreover,

15 ". . . given that it was the State's motion to excuse jurors, 16 the court first gave Ms. Moreno and Mr. DiBartolo the 17 opportunity to confer on the matter. They did so and elected to oppose the motion. In these circumstances, we consider analysis of Mr. DiBartolo's claim to be dispositive."

18 Ct. Rec. 23, pp. 83-84. As noted in the Magistrate Judge's report, 19 the state court of appeals found that this choice is a legitimate
20 trial tactic. Defense counsel's concluding comments to the court 21 clearly indicate the defense desire to leave the possibly fragmented 22 jury in place in hopes of a hung jury. Such legitimate trial 23 strategy is afforded great deference and cannot form the basis for 24 claimed ineffective assistance. See State v. McFarland, 127 Wn. 2d 25 322, 336, 899 P. 1251 (1995). Ct Rec. 23, pp. 86-88.

26 Petitioner again cites Government of Virgin Islands v.
27 Weatherwax, 20 F. 3d 572, 579-80 (3rd Cir. 1994), where the court 28 stated that when counsel's decisions were strategic or tactical in

1 nature, "[o]nly when behavior revealed ineptitude, inexperience,
2 lack of preparation or unfamiliarity with basic legal principles did 3 [these] actions amount to ineffective assistance of counsel."
4 Weatherwax, 20 F. 3d at 579 (internal citation omitted). Contrary to 5 the situation in Weatherwax, the record here reveals that counsel
6 made a deliberate strategic decision, one characterized by the court
7 of appeals as "strategically sound." Ct. Rec. 23, p. 67.

8 Petitioner's additional objections repeat the arguments raised
9 in the Habeas Petition and addressed in the report.

10 The Court adopts the Magistrate Judge's finding that the 11 exhausted federal claim is without merit. Petitioner's second 12 federal habeas claim is denied on the merits.

13 CONCLUSION

14 Petitioner has failed to make a showing that his conviction was 15 so fundamentally unfair as to deny him due process. The state court 16 decisions are not contrary to, nor involve, unreasonable
17 applications of clearly established federal law. Additionally, the 18 state court adjudications did not result in decisions that were 19 based upon unreasonable determinations of the facts in light of the 20 evidence. Consequently, the writ of habeas corpus cannot be granted
21 on Petitioner's claim. Accordingly,

22 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Magistrate Judge's Report and 23 Recommendation to dismiss Petitioner's Petition for Writ of Habeas
24 Corpus is ADOPTED in its entirety. Petitioner's Petition for Writ 25 of Habeas Corpus is DENIED and DISMISSED with prejudice. The 26 parties shall bear their own costs.

27 IT IS SO ORDERED. The District Court Executive is directed to 28 enter this Order, prepare and enter judgment accordingly, forward
